Growing With The Glades

Groundbreaking ceremonies for Everglades Federal Savings and Loan's new building at 125 N. Main St. will be held at 10 a.m. Monday. Association President Richard Poston announced Wednesday. The new two story building will be located on the northeast corner of Main St. and Canal St. in what is presently an empty lot, but which used to be the site of the Pure Oil

Truck Stop, torn down almost a decade ago. All of the directors of the Association will be present at the groundbreaking as will city officials. Poston said it would take about a year to complete the building which "signifies the Association's great faith in the continued growth of the Glades".

Sanitation Company Is Hit With Discrimination Charge

South Bay Mayor Vernita Cox said Tuesday Night garbage and trash pickup service is being offered only half the town with the boundary being drawn at the edges of the white and black communities.

South Florida Sanitation Co. Assistant Secretary Compton denied the company practices discrimination.

"We have certain days to pick up in a certain area," she said, "and sometimes we do have trouble with drivers but there's no way we discriminate anybody."

After a check of her files, Mrs. Compton said all collections were made on schedule last week and she had received no complaints.

Mrs. Cox said she and City Building Inspector Max Harrelle toured the city Sunday morning and said she found garbage cans throughout the black section of town overflowing while those in white neighborhoods were clean.

"I'm really angry," she said, "about the service being supplied by South Florida Sanitation, the company which recently renewed its contract with the city."

Mrs. Cox asked City Clerk Virginia Walker to have the commissioners placed on the agenda of the next meeting of the Palm Beach County Commission.

She said the city has previously complained to E.W. "Bud" Weaver for permission to use the city dump in Belle Glade, now operated by South Florida Sanitation and has been refused.

"But I understand," she said, "There is a new county dump in Pahokee and maybe we can get the use of that."

"They're (South Florida Sanitation) going to serve part of town and not the other part," Mrs. Cox said. "We don't need that kind of discrimination."

Mrs. Cox said the tour she made with Harrelle began as a matter of convenience when she began to notice the accumulation of garbage throughout her neighborhood, which was supposed to have been serviced the day before, was becoming increasingly upset.

It was only after she contacted Harrelle she realized that she began a city-wide check and noticed the discriminatory pattern.

In another area, the community decided unanimously to "consider" paying LatGrow Irrigation, Inc., the remaining $82,000 the city owes for the new sewer system if LatGrow agrees to pave six city streets.

Commissioner Woodrow "Woody" O'Neal said he would be willing to pay the money the payment provided LatGrow agrees to pave Northwest 12th Street and Second, Third, Eighth, Ninth and 11th Streets with at least one inch of asphalt, "to help a proper job."

LatGrow had held a meeting with City Clerk Virginia Walker, asking the city for some kind of decision on the repair of streets damaged when new sewer lines were installed.

The contract calls for the streets to be left in the condition they were in before construction began. LatGrow has been contending several of the streets were in such bad shape they should be completely paved instead of filling in the patches.

During the tour of some of the damaged streets on Feb. 23, Lionel LatGrow, president of the company, agreed with city commissioners Esther Berry, O'Neal and Neal Mayo to patch the streets since that was what the commissioners said they wanted at the time.

Shortly afterward, LatGrow said he toured the streets again with a spokesman from the city's consulting engineer, and subsequently went before the commissioners again with an offer to drop $10,000 from the contract price, to be used by the city as seed money to completely pave the streets.

The commissioners, one of the alternatives in the letter Mrs. Walker read to the commission Tuesday, the other being to patch all the streets but Third and Eighth, which were to be "very sealed."

LatGrow said last week he was "not liable to pay these two

"I just hope we're not up against something like that again this year," John said. "But I think if we can get the voters out, we'll win."

Soil And Water Vote Coming Up Tuesday

Glades freeholders will get their last chance for representation on the Palm Beach-Broward Soil and Water Conservation District's board of supervisors.

For the first time, Glades voters will be polled at the Belle Glade Post Office Station instead of the County office building on US441.

"All I'm interested in," John said this week, "is in getting some representation from the Glades on the board because the whole business of the district has to do with farming."

John pointed out his only opposition in the election is a Lake Worth man while all the other four supervisors already on the board are also coastal, freeholders.

If John is elected, he will finish the four year term of Cecil D. McClure, who resigned from the district board of supervisors earlier this year.

He said there is about two years left of that term.

John also said he understands the present supervisors are getting involved in areas above and beyond the boundaries of the district's responsibility.

He was elected and I find this is going to be a tough job to it.

The funds used to pay for the district's activities, whether they come from the federal or county government, are all paid by the taxpayers.

"It's all the taxpayers' money," he said, "and it shouldn't be wasted in areas that are none of the district's business."

John has been heading up the South Florida Conservancy District for almost 10 years and has been associated with the soil and water conservation district on a $3 million watershed program.

Because of this, he said he has had the charge of conflict of interest thrown against him but he said this isn't so.

The watershed project is jointly sponsored by the Palm Beach-Broward Soil and Water Conservation District, the Hendry County Soil and Water Conservation District and the South Florida Conservancy District.

"The other two districts have nothing to do with the watershed project's administration," he said.

John said he has been speaking to local groups recently about the necessity of maintaining Glades representation on the district after Tuesday and said the hardest thing about his campaign is overcoming voter apathy.

He noted that at the last election, only 25 voters turned out to vote from the Glades. All of them giving their votes to Fritz Stein Jr. and Stein was heavily defeated because the heavier turnout on the campaign trail.

"I'm going to try to get a lot of people to vote for me," he said. "The funds used to pay for the district's activities, whether they come from the federal or county government, are all paid by the taxpayers."

Environmental Hearing Pending

Local Boarding Houses Are Cited For Violations

Five Belle Glade boarding houses are currently entangled in a legal argument which could, if construed the right way, mean places such as the Holiday Inn are legally migrant labor camps.

Charles Rhodes, director of the Palm Beach County Health Department's Division of Environmental Sanitation, said the county is seeking a legal opinion from the state Attorney General's Office for a clearer definition of a "seasonal agricultural worker."

Rhodes said the five rooming houses involved are two owned by A.L. and Esther Maults, two owned by David E. Hill and one owned by Willie Miller.

At issue is a 1972 statute revising the definition of a migrant labor camp to any establishment, "accommodating more than five seasonal agricultural workers."

The new statute would take the rooming houses from under the jurisdiction of the state Division of Hotels and Restaurants and put them under the State Health Officer, Dr. Wilson Sowder.

Rhodes said Sowder sent instructions throughout the state to begin inspection of the facilities newly brought under his jurisdiction by the statute.

He said his division immediately began checking hundreds of rooming houses were issued notices of violation, beginning in December of 1973.

"The biggest problem in the violations," Rhodes said, "is that so many of these rooming houses were built without including plumbing and cooking equipment in living quarters now occupied by couples and families."

"You can get by with a bathroom down the hall," he said, "but you can't expect a married couple who may have children to eat out three times a day."

He said the violations the houses are being cited for are also covered by the Division of Hotels and Restaurants but that division has apparently not been enforcing the regulations.

Rhodes said ordinarily the owners of the rooming houses in question would be required to pay a fine before the Palm Beach County Environmental Control Hearing Board but said those appearances are being held up until an opinion is issued on the definition of a seasonal agricultural worker.

He said he has already been involved in several discussions about the definition and what it could mean.

"That's where the problem lies right now," he said, adding problems could arise if such places as the Holiday Inn in Belle Glade, which has been housing Australian engineers involved with mechanical cane harvesters throughout the season, were designated migrant labor camps.

"Most of the rooming house owners are being cited for are also covered by the Division of Hotels and Restaurants but that division has apparently not been enforcing the regulations."

"Plumbing is expensive," he said, "and I can see where some of the owners might balk at installing it."

"But it doesn't really matter what the legal opinion is going to be. It's just a question of who enforces the regulations."

They Are Guilty - Mayo

Enough Bay's new associate judge began his career Tuesday night with the comment, "I'm going to go with the police chief. If he says it's guilty, he's guilty."

The commissioners unanimously elected Commissioner Neal Mayo to the associate judge's position at the request of Police Chief August Dreson. Who said it wasn't proper for Mayor Vernita Cox to nominate John Deaton to hold Deaton's place.

Mrs. Cox was first nominated for the position by Commissioner Esther Berry. Who said it was proper for Mayor Cox to nominate Mayo and swing the other two commissioners with his argument the associate judge is apt to be called by the police department the "biggest dummy of the night."

The associate judge's position is traditionally held by the city's mayor. Deaton's office until a reshuffle two weeks ago which left the former mayor in the municipal court.

It isn't up to the associate judge to try cases but it is his duty to determine whether the police have enough of a case to take to court.

Mayo's statement caused an immediate uproar, with Dreson and other commissioners requesting members of the associate judge's panel to hold a press conference to conduct the first hearing in the event the police want a criminal hearing over to the municipal court.

"Your job," Mayo replied, "is to bind over anyone you think may be guilty."

"Neal," Commissioner Esther Berry said, "we're just going to have to get a big stopper to put in your mouth."

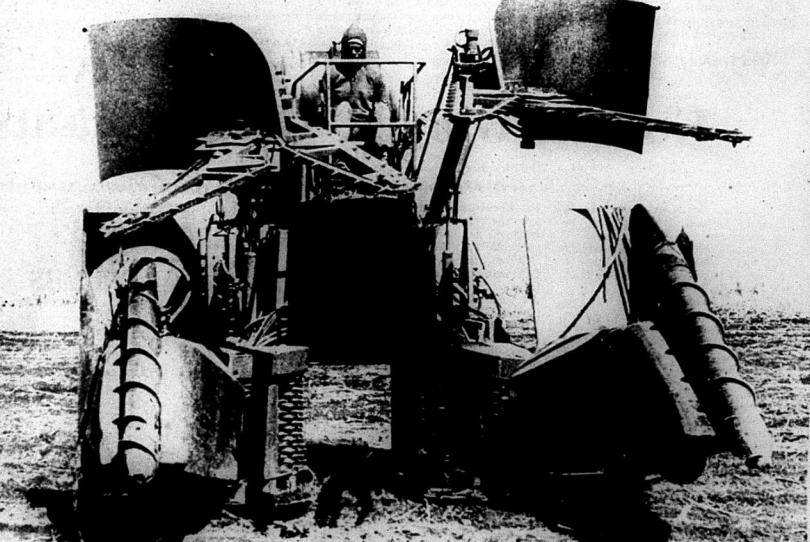

After Dreson and others had explained his new duties to him, Mayo told members of the press he, "was just kidding. Don't put that in the paper."

He then asked the City Attorney Allen Everard if his new job wasn't to bind over any criminal cases the chief thinks are worth it.

"Your job," Everard replied, "is to bind over anyone you think may be guilty."

Mechanical Monster Gets Job Done

Resembling some monster from a science fiction movie, this sugar cane harvester developed at Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida looks as though it's ready to devour anything in its path. After three years of working in the cooperative's fields, a patent was finally issued last month, the first one ever issued to the cooperative for a mechanical harvester since its research and development section was organized in 1969. For more details, see the Home Front.

Here Come De Judge

"Be sure you have your brain in gear before engaging your mouth." It's pretty solid advice to anyone and for public officials, especially meetings, it's considered an axiom by those who know.

That's probably why the Tuesday night South Bay City Commission meeting was put into such an uproar when Commissioner Neal Mayo blurted out what he did.

Mayo had just been elected by the other commissioners to the post of associate city judge, with the duties of binding over persons accused by the police to Municipal Judge Allen Everard.

"I'm going to go along with the (police) chief," Mayo announced. "If the chief says he's guilty, he's guilty."

That was bad enough but when he then proceeded to further demonstrate he didn't understand the duties involved by saying, "The chief wouldn't bring them in if he didn't think they were guilty."

"My job is to bind over people the police arrest, isn't it?" he jobbed Judge Everard. Everard told him, "No, your job is to bind over anyone you think might be guilty," emphasizing the word, you."

Within two minutes, Mayo destroyed whatever effectiveness he may have had as associate judge by prejudicing himself as ready to accept the police officer's word a person is guilty.

He could be replaced.

Turn Out Tuesday

Taxation without representation is tyranny and the use of taxes without representation is little better.

Following two elections which were almost as secret as the ballots cast, the Palm Beach-Broward Soil and Water Conservation District finally gave advance notice of the special election coming up Tuesday.

It could be too late.

With Glades voting, interests may have been over-represented on the district's board of supervisors, as were charged in past elections by present board members, there's a possibility we won't be represented at all after Tuesday.

Fred John is running for the seat occupied by Cecil D. McClure until McClure resigned in January. If he is defeated, the Glades will have no representation on the board, which spends our dollars, a lot of dollars.

District elections in the past, largely because few people knew about them, have traditionally had high turnout.

It admittedly isn't the most glamorous election going, and you do have to be a freshie to participate (a requirement that probably wouldn't be in today's courts) but they're spending our money.

They're helping spend $3 million on one watershed project alone and the district is also responsible for hundreds of thousands of dollars in other projects. Those projects largely take place in the Glades, are largely farm-oriented, and Glades residents, farmers and others, have a say on how money is spent and what's done with it.

But people on the coast have been waking up to the district in recent elections. While Fritz Stein Jr. received the vote of virtually every ballot-caster from the Glades in the last election, he was still defeated on the coast.

John, the manager of the South Florida Conservancy District for the past ten years, is a qualified man with all the credentials for the job.

Fred John may understand more about the work the district is supposed to do than the all four supervisors now seated combined.

He's qualified and he's from the Glades.

Vote.

Golden Gloves, Green Giants And True Grit

Sur is nice to have a white collar job. Last week, I made a deal with Glenn to take over the job of delivering the Herald to racks and news stands around the area. It's getting to be an education.

It's a side of the newspaper business I haven't been involved in since I delivered Grit door-to-door more than 20 years ago in Jacksonville.

I guess I'd forgotten how much a side of the business is in small weeklies like the Herald, can weight and how measurable fresh ink is.

I don't know if I'll ever get the shirt clean again.

Guess I'd also take for granted the bliss of ignorance when someone stops you on the street and demands to know why the papers weren't in the racks on time.

The time when I could tell grippers to, "talk to Anne, I don't have anything to do with circulation," is over. Actually, believe it or not, I haven't had a single complaint yet.

Knock on wood!

I figured I needed something to round out my Wednesdays anyway. Now, when I come to work somewhere between 5:30 and 6 a.m., I'll know I won't be faced with nothing to do once we're finished putting the paper to bed.

All seriousness aside though, everything went pretty smooth that first day but I can almost hear the chorales around here the first Wednesdays things get ragged again...and that's the norm rather than the exception.

I'm a heavyweight myself, but I'll tell you one thing. You're not going to catch me in the same ring with one particular heavyweight out of GCI.

Clifford Johnson is a member of the GCI boxing team and when he stepped through the ropes against Daytona's Joe Day in the final round of the Golden Gloves Tournament in Miami last Saturday, he had two bouts to his credit...both wins.

Day, on the other hand, had pushed his 205 pounds through 108 amateur fights and had won most of them. As a matter of fact, I understand Day was a champion of some kind in the Southwest.

One minute and thirty-eight seconds after the bell rang, birds sang for Mr. Day. Mr. Day went back home to Daytona and brother Johnson is on his way to Denver for the national championships.

Oh yes, Clifford weighs in at 277 pounds. He stands more than 6 feet. Wonder if that had anything to do with the outcome?

Congratulations, Clifford. Take a message to Colorado for us and bring back a national championship for the boys to admire.

One of the better deals I've heard recently for the people who work every season to run the sugar mills around Belle Glade is a recruitment program being carried on by the Jolly Green Giant.

You know, the overgrown Chlorophyll Kid who imitates Santa Claus in the commercials.

It isn't a laughing matter though. A couple of personnel types were down here beating the drums for workers during the summer at what will be the world's largest green bean processing plant in Beaver Dam, Wis.

We were talking about the relative merits of the weather in Belle Glade and Beaver Dam and while they were luxuriating in the Florida sunshine and shuddering about the cold weather they'd left behind, I could only think about how nice it must be in Wisconsin in the summer when the temperature and humidity readings are about the same in Belle Glade.

The odd thing they'd noticed while they were here (all you restaurant owners take notice) was that they couldn't find any corn on the cob in the local eateries.

The fact they came between the crops didn't seem to matter to them. All they knew was that they were in the middle of the nation's winter vegetable belt and couldn't find any corn.

(Just thought I'd pass that along for what it's worth.)

While we were talking vegetables, I threw out something else in an attempt to satisfy my curiosity, forgetting they were personnel men and not processing technicians.

I love asparagus...always have. It's best when it's fresh but I like it canned too. The only way I've bought it that I don't care for is frozen.

Now, to me, and the whole thing could be wrong, as I recall, I think almost every vegetable I've ever bought both frozen and canned tastes better when it's frozen...everything but asparagus.

One of the guys said he'd noticed the same thing but with him, it was green beans. Said canned green beans beat frozen green beans to a standstill.

Now that's something for someone among all the vegetable experts in the area to get their teeth into...and the play on words was intentional.

Can anybody out there among my three or four readers help us out? Like I say, it's been bugging me for years. Is it the asparagus or is it me?

Guess what I forgot. Sunday was St. Paddy's Day and I wasn't even aware of it until then...beggars!

Even though green milkshake television commercials just sailed right over my head, Faith, and me old Sergeant Corcoran would've beamed me with his shillelagh.

Corky was one of the true Boston Irish who can't stand to see St. Paddy's Day go by without the Weasel o' the Green and don't get caught around him on that day with a oranges necktie.

Here's to you, Corky, and may your green beer never be bilious.

graphic as the book is verbal. The only difference is that for me visual is much more gripping. The movie had a much greater impact on me because it was visual.

How, you ask, can a story be both religious and sacrilegious at the same time?

The main theme of The Exorcist is that of a very innocent little girl who is possessed by a very powerful demon. The demon takes over her body and makes her commit all sorts of vulgar and sacrilegious acts. These acts are not only physical but verbal as well.

Part of the reason that the two priests who are asked to exorcise the demon from the little girl, one has performed the act of exorcism before on the same demon. The other is a Jesuit priest contacted by the mother of the possessed child.

The underlying or secondary theme is what the movie becomes religious.

The young Jesuit priest, unbeknownst to the mother, is going through a period of great doubt—great doubt in his faith in God.

To go any further into the story would be to reveal too much to those who have not read the book.

If you haven't read the book, should you? It depends.

If you are a very deeply religious person with a very strong faith, you are going to have to put aside an awful lot of prejudice to finish the book. But if I think you will find it very rewarding, I hope you can look beneath what I consider to be a veneer of vulgarity for the real story.

For those of you any less than that, you will not find the book as offensive. But you will find it very disturbing. You may very well find yourself identifying with the young priest at the end of the book.

As for the movie, well, don't go to see it without first reading the book. Then, if you feel you can physically accept everything you have just read, then by all means go to see this very powerful movie.

If you can't then don't go. Because everything you read in the book you will see on the screen.

feeding the walkers when they returned to Belle Glade or, if they were still on the road at 2 p.m., to distribute sandwiches to the men at the checkpoints.

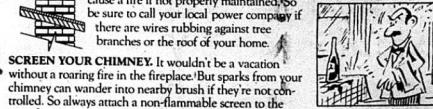

This was one of the reasons our planning broke down because a large number of the sandwiches we expected were never delivered. When we went to Belle Glade to check on them, I found we were almost out of sandwiches.

On the men who were on the walkathon, we sent $20 of his own pocket to buy bread and lunch meat but by the time the sandwiches were made, it was too late to feed the walkers still on the road.

If the person who wrote the letter had checked with the Belle Glade checkpoint, he would have known what the problem was and could possibly have pitched in to help solve it.

I do take full responsibility for the breakdown, however, and can only say I did my best to make it doesn't happen again next year.

Painters Host For Beta Xi Dinner

Beta Xi members and their husbands enjoyed a formal dinner Saturday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Painter.

The party was given in honor of the Chapter's Girl of the Year, Mrs. Lee Burke.

Following dinner, someone from each table of guests read a portion of a poem written for the occasion by Mr. and Mrs. Busbee until the Girl of the Year was revealed in the final stanza.

The traditional tarts and engraved silver tray was presented to Mrs. Burke for her outstanding contributions to Beta Xi and last year's Girl of the Year.

Candlelight and a lovely arrangement of spring flowers centered the serving table. The menu included chicken and broccoli, wild rice, tossed salad, rolls and butter.

For dessert, fresh strawberries dipped in sour cream and brown sugar. After dinner, liqueurs were enjoyed in the garden along with singing accompanied by Eddie Smith and his banjo.

Residents living in the Glades area of West Palm Beach County but not in one of the municipalities are in for a hike of garage collection rates if requested rate changes are granted.

"This new ecology business," Cunningham said, "is getting us involved, subjugated and energized and it's costing us $1,000 a month."

"We just can't operate at our present rates and make a profit," he said.

Another reason, he said, has been the increase in wages the company is paying forced to pay.

"We've been staying several years ago," he said, "we're paying our workers' and drivers $60 to $80 a week. Not to mention paying to $135 a week."

The area involved in the public hearing consists of every town bounded on the north by Royal Park East, which runs through 20 Mile Bend, and on the north, west and south by the county line.

Cunningham said about 1,000 residents west of 20 Mile Bend will be affected by the rate hike, should the commission grant his request.

He said the largest single reason for the requested

Churches To Take Census

Members of the churches in the Belle Glade Ministerial Association will take part in a city-wide "religious census" Sunday afternoon.

Church members will be canvassing homes throughout the city to get information on individual families concerning their faith, church affiliation, the number of persons in the family, family members' ages, whether they're newcomers into town and the frequency they attend church.

If a key man dies

Every business has what is known as a "Key Man." He may be the owner or a vital engineer, salesmanager, or "sparkplug" who similarly responsible for forging ahead with new business or products. In many cases, rare skills or knowledge. His personal contacts may attract business or he may be a source of the firm's credit or reputation in the field.

It seems strange, how many businesses will insure their physical assets; cars, buildings, inventories; all of which can be replaced; and forgotten. Only rarely does a company insure the loss of a man who may mean more to the business than the building it is housed in.

A very simple solution to this risk, is for the company to insure the life of its "key man" to protect against eventual eventual loss until a suitable replacement can be found.

High Wire Act

A whirlybird, used to position power lines atop 100-foot towers, has been used in the Indian River Project. The transmission lines, riding on cleanly-designed tubular steel structures, will deliver power to Floridians from new nuclear generating units at Florida Power & Light Company's St. Lucie Plant (background). There, the first 890,000 kilowatt nuclear unit is slated for fuel loading in late 1975, with a second unit planned for 1977. These will join two older generating units already in operation. PFC's Turkey Point Plant, in South Florida, is serving the public's power needs while helping "save" scarce supplies of fossil fuels, such as oil and natural gas.

Several weeks ago, we were asked by Willie White, a second grade teacher at Gladewater Elementary School, to take part in her class' study of the Herald. Publisher Glenn Loney visited Mrs. White's class and talked to her students and, following his talk, Mrs. White gave her children the assignment of writing their own news stories.

Since these stories would be a child's eye view of newspapers in general, were naturally interested and asked Mrs. White if she'd let us see them when they were finished.

Below is a sample of the stories themselves, although many included pictures or advertisements. As our readers probably will be, we were surprised at the quality of many of them.

Enjoy them with us.

NEEDLEPOINT NEWS

Have you always wished that you could have a favorite color photo, original design or work of art onto a needlepoint canvas? Now you can! It's a new process that's very much to the point.

Previously, the method used to achieve a personal

design or portrait-type image on canvas has been the time-consuming and difficult hand-painted method. Today, an in-

manipulation has come up with a process that faithfully reproduces a picture on canvas at a price that is far below the cost of hand-painting.

THANK YOU GLADES AREA

To All Glades Citizens:

Words cannot express the gratitude I feel toward the people of Belle Glade and Pahokee for their efforts in making the March of Dimes Second Annual Glades Walkathon the success it was, but I would like to take this opportunity to try.

While I was given the task of coordinating the big walk, there is no doubt in my mind who did the work necessary to set up the walk, collect the money or hold the party given last week for the walkers.

The March of Dimes had the cooperation of virtually every civic club and group in Belle Glade, as well as many of the merchants and governmental leaders.

No one club or group dominated the contributions, in money, merchandise or work, but everyone who took part in the overall effort added up to more than the total sum for the overall success.

Two couples who have worked in both of the first two walkathons held in the Glades were invaluable. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Huggins and Mr. and Mrs. Hughie Jones contributed more money than anyone.

They gave their time, in the preparations, during the walk and preparing and holding the collection party. They ran records, kept records, found food and cooked for the others.

They, along with my sister-in-law, Shirley Echols and my husband, Renzo, could be described as the glue that helped hold the Walkathon together, although it couldn't have taken place without workers, walkers and contributors.

Two years ago, Palm Beach County collected more funds for the March of Dimes from the Walkathons than any other county in the nation and received national credit in New Orleans during the Southeastern March of Dimes Conference. The Glades played a key role by collecting $28 per walker then.

This year, we had a total of $24,000 pledged to the walkers, an average of $30 per walker, and any credit for this effort should and will have to go to the entire community.

One of the few breakdowns we had during the walk was we were short some 250 sandwiches intended to feed the walkers when they returned to Belle Glade or after they had left Pahokee and hadn't returned before 3 p.m.

The sandwiches, which had been promised by four local organizations, never appeared so when we were ready to distribute the food to the checkpoints, they weren't available.

Even an emergency $20 purchase of bread and bologna Jim Huggins made out of his own pocket wasn't quite enough.

A partial list of those who were particularly responsible for the walk's success would have to include:

Registration workers were Patty Tritt, Jennie Huggins, Janette Jones, Shirley Echols, Nancy King, Mary Frances Burke, Jeannie Woodard.

First Checkpoint: Elite Community Club, including, Mrs. Mattie Walker, Mrs. Josephine Harrison, Miss Barbara Finney, Mrs. Brenda Montgomery, Mrs. Estella Pyfrom, Mrs. Jessie Jenkins, Mrs. Deloris White, Mrs. Shirley Lockett, Mrs. Florence Lockett, and Mrs. Lillian Jones, Mrs. Effie Grear, Ruby Rutledge and Mrs. Shirley Speakers.

The Second Checkpoint at Rardin Park was manned by Belle Glade Rotary Club members Robert White and Dale Stapp.

Taking the finish line were Nu Kappa Sorority members Brenda Prescott, Renie Jo Lane, Maria Carter and Tina Rongione.

Other people who contributed time on the day of the walk included Bob Woodard, James Brown, Gilbert Perkins, National Guardsman Bucky Holt (who drove the Pooch-out Pickup) and Chuck Outto, who painted signs for the line of march.

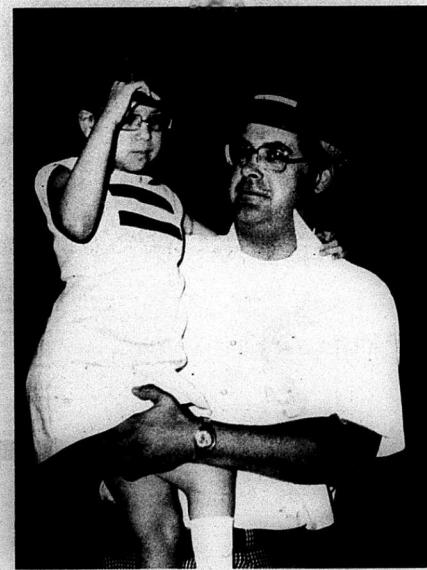

Providing first aid for sore feet and blisters were a car donated by the American Red Cross and the Belle Glade Fire Department.

Unsanctified refreshments were provided by Bob Miller who took over the Pepsi-Cola stand at Rardin Park and another refreshment point where Lake Equipment Co. provided free Coca-Cola.

What sandwiches we did have were given by the Belle Glade Junior Woman's Club, the Belle Glade Woman's Club, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Chapters Beta Xi, Mu Upsilon, Xi Beta Gamma and Mrs. Tucker.

Among those who deserve special thanks are Florida Sugar Cane League Personnel Director Bill Hunter, who contacted members of the league and coordinated donations from the members.

The strong right arm of Glades Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida Personnel Director Charles Schiele helped prepare the Glades for the walk by literally carrying little Carmen Donesa, a former poster child, on part of her tour through the area.

STRONG ARMS HELPED CARRY CARMEN ON TOUR OF SUGAR MILL
...it was high light of her visit to the Glades to help promote the local walkathon

Charles had to carry Carmen in his arms on her tour through the Glades Sugar House, the highlight of her entire trip because little Carmen was born with birth defects still causing her to walk with a limp.

The major effort following the walkathon itself was the collection party...which was the payoff to the walk since this was where the reason for it was realized.

It was at the party we began collecting the more than $24,000 pledged and the party was our way of saying, "Thanks" to all the Glades residents who walked a mile for the life of a child.

A large number of people made the party possible.

Ajene, Jim Huggins, and his wife, Jennie, and Hughie and Janette Jones, Charles and Shirley Echols, Judy Huggins and Bob Miller made their presence felt by doing more than their share of work.

Collecting funds and issuing certificates to walkers were Carol Zumpf, Bonnie Blitch, Thurmond and Dixie Kemp, and a group of volunteers, Anne Nash, Lynda Scott, and Jeannie Meredith, Vicki McMullen, Inge Stambough and Sue Miller.

Other workers filling key positions were Sherman Chapman and Bob McIntosh, Ann Welty, the Pahokee Chairman, was also present with a contingent from Pahokee, including Judy Griffis, Paula Buckner and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Turner.

On the job of guiding and transporting the funds were Belle Glade Detective J.R. Eberly and Belle Glade Auxiliary Police Officer Mike Zumpf. Also on hand was Pahokee Police Auxiliaryman Bob Welty.

I would also like to thank both personnel and inmates at Glades Correctional Institution. Under the leadership of Philip Shuford, GCI Director, and Glenna K. Hundley, and staff provided a 500-cabbage pot of cole slaw which was enough to feed 500 people.

One of the most important contributions came under the leadership of John Slinkowitz of GCI, who was responsible for the GCI rock band, who provided entertainment throughout the party.

Because of the normal experience which would have been incurred by giving such a party for the walkers, much of the money donated to the party to the country genetic clinic which had ordinarily been sidetracked.

That wasn't necessary because of the contributions made by a large number of merchants in the area, in money and in food and soft drinks.

Those merchants contributing included Janury's Market, Bailey's Grocery, Cesarita Grocery, U.S. Grove Grocery, with the Belle Glade Winn Dixie-Kwik Chek, Miner's Grocery, Time Saver, McArthur Dairy, Glades Bakery and Wilson Grocery.

There were also the Alabama-Georgia Store, Woodham's Market, W.T. Grant's, Echols-Collins, Carter Electric and South Bay Growers, Eli Witt, Pepsi Cola, Royal.

There were those who went "above and beyond" to help lay the groundwork for the big walk.

One corporation making a special effort was Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida, which picked up the tab for a luncheon held the Wednesday before the walk.

That luncheon was where Carmen Donesa was introduced to many officials from Belle Glade and Pahokee, some of whom made the walk themselves.

There were the three Belle Glade Lions, Milton Carpenter, Skipper Bowles and Bert Ward, who walked the route a week and a half early. They not only walked from Belle Glade to Pahokee, they cleared a large amount of obstacles such as broken glass, out of the way.

And there were the officials, Mayor Donald Duggett and Councilwoman Wynona Bowles from Pahokee, who made the walk as far as the airport, and Belle Glade Commissioners Ralph Kirk, walking as far as Hooker Highway, and Bill Gear, who walked all the way to Pahokee with Mayor Aubrey Farmer.

Last, but by no means least, I would especially like to express my gratitude to the Glades City Manager, William M. Hackett, and his Lieutenant, Van Hackett, the big money winners for the walkathon.

Between the two of them, Van Hackett completed the walk and Bill Mallery finished 17 miles, they earned $4,000 for the Palm Beach County Genetics Center operated by the March of Dimes.

And that was what it was all about anyway, from the beginning to the end, the Glades way of helping children, even unborn children, from the Glades and elsewhere in the county, while they have been unfortunate enough to have birth defects.

Thank you and thank you again.

Marjorie Echols, Coordinator

Glades Walkathon.

The Belle Glade Junior Woman's Club held its tenth Annual Installation Luncheon Saturday, March 16, at the James Chamblee home at Tahiti in Belle Glade.

The members and guests were treated to an afternoon of "southern hospitality" as the theme of the old South was carried out. A luncheon of "Southern Delights" was served.

The members of the Installation Committee entertained the guests with an original song entitled as a special tribute to the new president and a closing skit. The members of the committee was Judy Schiele, Sandra Chamblee, Jayne Booton, Betty Bair, June Mikel, and Nancy Miller.

Since this was the tenth installation service, all the past presidents of the club were honored.

These special guests were Mrs. Ruth Wedgworth, President of the Belle Glade Woman's Club and Mrs. Guy Wood, Sponsor for the Belle Glade Girl Scout Troop.

Mrs. Charles Schiele installed new officers for 1974-75 who are: Mrs. Frank Teets, President, Mrs. John Chamblee, First Vice-President, and Mrs. Ruth Wedgworth, President of the Belle Glade Woman's Club and Mrs. Guy Wood, Sponsor for the Belle Glade Girl Scout Troop.

With all the streaking going on nowadays, can you imagine what an international streaking tournament would be like? For instance let's say the competition took place in a small town such as Belle Glade.

"Hello everyone," said Ann Oncer here at the Beach welcoming them to the First Annual International Streaking Tournament. Streakers from all over will be competing here in this balmy little town in Florida for the Championship Streaker Award.

We have guys and girls such as Nude Knute, from the North Pole, Nicki (that's a girl ladies and gentlemen) the Russian Red Streak, Clothes less, the Canadian Blue Streak (it's cold up there) and America's own Nudie Bare among others in the competition.

The matches will take place all day long in unexpected places and at unusual times. So be on the lookout non-streakers, you may see a flash of bare skin around.

Winners will be judged as to the originality of the place during his streak, the number of observers and the time it takes for him to streak, the slowest, time counts, 1 count.

Winners will be given a certificate of the bare-bottomed streakers now.

Yes, here he comes through the crowd of people on Main Street, watch him go! Hey, Mr. Streaker may I have a word with you for a moment? Please sir, just stand here.

The streaker has his hair cut short and looks very refined.

"What do you want?"

"If you please sir, would you tell us your name?"

"My name is Ben Butt and I'm from North Carolina. The reason I streak is because I'm bored with the problems in life and I would like to have a change of pace. I've now changed my pace of running from two minutes to five. Anything else?"

"Wow, you sound like you've given hundreds of speeches already."

"Uh, Well, I must be streaking."

"Bye. And good luck on your pace!"

Now let's see if we can get hold of another streaker. Here comes one now.

"Excuse me sir, would you step here a moment?"

The long hair streaker looks up in surprise. "Golly, an I on TV? Like this?" He looks around and finds a blanket, anything! Hi Mom, Hi Dad!

Don't worry, I'm not a streaker. It's just trick photography. Actually, I've got all my clothes on, see?" With that the streaker runs off.

"Well, so much for a local streaker. Sorry folks, got to streak, run streak. I'll be back later with the winner of the streaking competition and details of the tournament."

"Here we are again folks, with the winner of the first annual Streaking Tournament in the world, that time with his clothes on. It's the one and only skinny Santa. Tell him Skinny, what place did you pick to streak?"

"Umha, umha." "What did you say? I'm sorry but I didn't hear you."

"Huh? What kind of talk is that? That's not the kind of mistake. Wait Santa, ah Skinny don't take your clothes off here! Please sir, the competition is over, there's no need to streak here! Why, he's not a human, he's an ape! There he goes, off into the sunset!"

"Umha, umha-a-a-a!" cries the streaker.

"Well, so, so much for the annual Streaking Tournaments. So long, folks!"

Bass Tournament Ends

Inmate Wins State Championship By KO

A member of the Glades Correctional Institution became the first state Golden Gloves heavyweight division champion last weekend in Miami with a crushing right-handed knockout blow.

Bill Johnson, 21, weighed in at 277 pounds, scored the only KO during the final one minute and 38 seconds into the first round against Jimmie Dickey, 21, of Puerto Rico.

One observer said Johnson "used an incredible right to knock out... Day" Johnson outcold.

Johnson became the only champion home to GCI but three other GCI boxers made it to the final round of the tournament before being eliminated.

Featherweight Roy Burgess, who won the title in his division last year, was eliminated in a split decision match against Victor Made of Puerto Rico.

Two other GCI boxers lost unanimous decisions to Miami fighters when Welterweight La Sali Spivey, 144, lost to Marion Bankston, 144, and Light-middleweight Robert Moore, 175, lost to Woody Clark, 176.

The tournament was dominated by the Puerto Rico and Puerto Rico teams, with four Miami boxers scoring wins and three wins being chalked up by Puerto Rico fighters.

Belle Glade was one of only three other cities represented in the winner's circle as the light-middleweight division was captured by a Tampa man.

Johnson, 21, of Belle Glade, was won by a man from St. Petersburg.

Last year, the first GCI was in competition. Two state titles were captured by boxers from the institution.

Earn Cash

The Reynolds Aluminum cash-for-cans mobile unit which pays 10 cents a pound for all aluminum cans will be returning to Belle Glade two times during March.

Belle Glade's citizens were paid $1,138.90 by Reynolds Metal Co. for more than 17,000 cans collected, which weighed 11,289 pounds of aluminum to the unit, which is the equivalent of 261,947 cans collected.

Flat-top, all-aluminum cans (also TV dinner trays, pie pans or other aluminum scrap) may be redeemed at 500 W. Canal St. on Thursday, March 14 and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Aluminum is the "Metal of Environmental Thrift" because it saves energy, doesn't deteriorate, and is easily recycled for reuse.

It makes an energy bank that can be drawn upon again and again," according to Reynolds Director of Environmental Planning, Dr. Robert F. Testin.

"For example," added Testin, "aluminum can be recycled over and over again, each time an energy savings of 95 per cent of that required to make virgin metal."

Census Begins

Three area women will interview a number of local households in a nationwide sample of 50,000 families this month, concentrating on work experience and income during 1973 of household members.

They will also ask questions concerning national origins of descent and whether the householders have moved since April 1, 1970, when the federal census was taken.

The three women conducting the census in the local area are Mrs. Betty Garriga, Mrs. Patricia Dugan and Mrs. Mary Caldwell.
